Watching for Santa

'Twas Christmas Eve and all was still,
As three small heads with golden hair
Peered wide-eyed o'er the window-sill
To see if old Saint Nick were there.
Now comes the sound of dainty paws:
It is the deer of Santa Claus.

Behold the wondrous magic sleigh,
All laden down with shining toys
And dolls, which only go, they say,
To nice, good-mannered girls and boys
(But surely it is not polite
To peek at Santa Christmas night!)

Look! On the roof, with nimble tread
Strides Santa, as the kiddies peep.
They duck and scamper back to bed—
A moment later they're asleep.
And when they awaken, they will see
A world of gifts beneath their Tree.

When Phillip Received That Christmas Gift

PRISCILLA was making pumpkin pies. The fruit cake had been ripened—and the turkey lay in festive state, stuffed with sage and onion. Although it was really a chicken, one didn't mention that, no more than one mentioned the fact that daddy was Santa Claus, or that the little black stockings which hung before the hearth fire would not be very full. There was only one blot in Priscilla's Christmas joy. "I can't give Phillip anything," she said to her mother, worriedly. "It isn't as if he were a youngster and satisfied with red-yeared mittens, or as if he were a poor boy, even, but when he sends me grehids, mother, I—I don't know what to do." Phillip was the young man from the city who had been exceedingly attentive to Priscilla. Flowers he sent, and fruits and dainty candies, but not the simple, homely kind to which she had been accustomed. It was not this air of richness though that made Priscilla's heart beat quick and thrilly. It was the simple, boyish way of him. Dear! Yes, she had just admitted it to herself.

And now he was coming to Christmas dinner with her and her happy, humble family and Priscilla in her unworriedness, felt that she had no gift for him. Her mother, though, was wiser. She looked with a tender, wistful pride at her fair young daughter, the daughter with soft eyes shining, with hair curled gaily in the steam of the fragrant kitchen, with rose-petal cheeks, blushed warm by young love, and by Christmas. She finished her cooking and set the long white table where the hearth fire glowed and the Christmas tree was festive with red and tinsel.

Then Phillip had come and the dinner was progressing, fluffy potatoes and gravy all brown, the roasted turkey which was a chicken, really, the old fruit cake and, last of all, the spicy pumpkin pie. The mother watched and smiled, but her eyes were moist a little, for every bit of food Priscilla served was as a gift. If only Phillip could know.

But no one could explain to Phillip. After the meal was over and extravagantly praised, the rich boy from the city seemed comfortably at home. He and Priscilla took a walk through the crisp, snowy Christmas starlight and still she could not tell him that she had no gift for him. Back to the front steps they came, then out of the shadows Biddle jumped and ran into the house. Phillip saw the mistletoe first and suddenly there was no need for explanations. The stars and the snowflakes saw him take the sweetest gift of all—Merry Christmas.

The American Turkey

PHILIP'S the most distinctive feature of our American Christmas dinner is the turkey. This noble bird is a Christmas feast requirement, whether the dinner be prepared in Texas or Wisconsin, New York or California. It is interesting to recall the origin of our national Christmas bird. The story of Capt. John Smith, fresh from his wars with the Turks, surveying the wild turkey in the forests of Virginia and of his uproarious laughter upon seeing the turkey gobbler strut proudly before the hens is perhaps fresher in the minds of our school children than in our own. At any rate, we agree with his comparison of the proud gobbler, for he "is exactly like the proud Turk showing off before his harem." So the name turkey is no longer familiar just to Americans, but has fast become an international medium of celebrating the happy Christmas season.—Frank H. Sweet. (© 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Mistletoe and Kissing

The mistletoe and kissing are always inseparably connected in the minds of Europeans, and as far back as tradition and history can go the quaint berrid plant and kissing have always gone hand in hand together.

Christmas Day

Christmas is the sweetest day of the year, for the reason that it is, in its proper observance, utterly unselfish, and because it is the golden link of time that serves to bind heaven and earth in a closer understanding.

Singing Christmas Carols

Christmas carols were sung as far back as 1221 and were said to be the songs sung by angels at the birth of Christ.

First Christmas Observance

The observance of Christmas began about the fourth century. It became a general custom only in the Thirteenth century.

Holly Unlucky

In some parts of England there is a superstition that it is unlucky to take holly into the house before Christmas.

Yuletide in the Toy Shop

by Merjorie Howe Dixon.

If you can see through the magic lens of a child's round-eyed wonder, you can trip in a toy shop to a land of enchantment. Price tags and such practical matters must be put aside and forgotten and youth's joy and imagination must be revived, to enjoy this adventure thoroughly.

Give yourself plenty of time. You just mustn't leave it till the end of your Christmas shopping.

When you keep house at the age of eleven or twelve you will find in the toy shop nowadays all the desirable dishes and pots and pans and silver that heart could wish. Eleven years demands one of two extremes—nearly life-size dishes that you can really use or tiny little sets intrigue the imagination by their weeness. Cups smaller than a thimble, a vegetable dish that will hold one kernel of corn, a gravy boat to correspond, plates the size of one's thumbnail and so on.

The toys from far-away countries are increasingly varied this year in their copies of grown-up activities. A set of glasses with colored stripes with a pitcher and a glass spoon for each tumbler is one of these novelties. Each glass is less than an inch high, and the tray for the entire set the size of the base of an ordinary tumbler.

Toy Tea Sets

An adorable tea set of tiny proportions has a delightful little wicker tea cart, on which to be served. The tea set of blue and gold is a good copy of expensive china.

Eating in such fun, and if one has a tiny electric stove that really works, of course, one wants cake pans and kettles and things for cooking. Sturdy aluminum sets are there in the toy shop, glass baking sets just like mother's and pretty enamelware. Besides these there are cunning spoons and knives and forks to work with.

Stores in Miniature

For the little boy there are similar delights in store keeping. A store all full of little cases and drawers for supplies to sell is awfully fascinating and the scale, the largest thing in it, is none too large for sonny because is not the scale the most important thing? One weighs so carefully each bit of sugar sold and then tips the sugar into one's mouth. That saves ever so much time wrapping it up.

Some of the youngsters keep house in a doll's house. Here the toy shop seems to have outdone itself—for there are so many perfectly darling bits of furniture from which to choose. There are overstuffed divans just like mother's and painted Windsor chairs and white enamel things for the bathroom and clocks and electric lights and a radio and, my sakes just everything.

It is fortunate doll that lives in such a house. Every modern comfort can be supplied for her.

Those Baby Dolls

And so for dollies—one simply grows bewildered trying to decide which one to choose. There are several sizes of the smaller dolls that live in the doll houses, some of them with dresses and wardrobes to finish sewing and others quite undressed but with eyes that open and close, and long curling hair.

Baby dolls are very popular among the girls and they vary from the one that fits in one's hand to the life size one that can wear real baby clothes. "Character" dolls have their share of attention. They are skillfully made of composition that will not break and each one has a strong individuality. Some of these are pretty little modern boys and girls, and others are children from foreign lands, in their native costumes.

There is something just ever so satisfying to a little girl about a blonde dollie with lovely soft curls and a ruffled pink dress with lace on it. So the toy shop has ever so many of these. However can one choose when one just simply loves them all? The Acrobatic Giraffe. For little boys and for older boys there is endless entertainment provided in the toy shop. When one has accomplished that great adventure of learning to walk, one wants a companion to follow after and admire one's progress. An animal on wheels is preferred, if you please, and there he is in the toy shop and all the rest of the menagerie too.

Some of the toys are made of square blocks brightly painted, some hop up and down as they roll along, and still others are cleverly jointed so that they can do stunts. For instance there is a perfectly ridiculous giraffe, who can tie his legs or his long neck into knots and not mind in the least.

The Baby's Pet Fish

Even at bath time one may have one's pets along. Of course there are fish among the celluloid animals that swim and all the other swimmers too, and some that you would never expect to see swim, do it very well when made of celluloid.

When one is still younger and hasn't learned to walk yet and has to try out every new thing by squeezing it or eating it why, the toy shops are ready for him too.

Oh, the cuddly soft furry things for the little fellow! Ducks of pink plush, with aprons and bonnets, perfectly sweet little pig-elephants are there to choose from. Little grotesque dogs with bow legs are made of green and purple velvet. They really should not be green or purple, should they? But these are.

Aviation for the Young

The older boys who have outgrown foolish animals, once their dearest companions, find they are endlessly entertained in the toy shop. When one has read sufficient Hiawatha, one just has to try to make a bow and let fly an arrow. Indian costumes and archery sets are already waiting in the toy shop.

The next day the young man decides to be a pilot. Here again the toy shop is just how he feels. Airplanes of several sizes to fly.

Understanding Sales. Christmas seems to be all the new and unusual and makes it all the more difficult to choose. But the people are so kind, and have such understanding and are so ready to help, feels deeply gratified when everything is all tied ready at last for the Christmas tree.

In the rural schools of son county 409 boys and enrolled in classes for stock feeding. Banks county back the graduate purchase of purebred livestock.

Pro. Spectacular Low Motor Car of Time.

ALLS TO HAVE DISPLAYED 1ST

Dec. 24—Promising the tacular low priced auto all time, the Chevrolet company announced here a complete new line of s will be introduced to s January first. firming reports that would very shortly in new car of surpassing W. S. Knuesen, presi- the Chevrolet Motor Co., that the official an- nt covering all details olt's sensational new ould come Sunday Jan- Nb. details will be until that time, he said, t assembly plants have uction on the new ver 12. Factories in Y., of one make have been placed in y Oakland, Cal.

Buffalo, N. Y., Janesville, Wisc., and Norwood, O., have been humming with activity preparing for the highways the first of the new cars that promise to make motor car history in 1928.

Shipments of the new cars to dealers have been leaving the various assembly plants since December 15 so that the vast country-wide dealer organization may be prepared for the introductory showing next Sunday. Unbridled enthusiasm is being displayed over the new cars by Chevrolet field sales officials who have been milling into Detroit for private showings of the new line.

Practically every Chevrolet dealer in the United States will have cars ready for public inspection January first. From Bangor, Me. to San Diego and from Miami to Vancouver there will be simultaneous exhibitions of the new car that has caused so much discussion in the last few months.

This gigantic distribution achievement of supplying thousands of dealers with cars in such a brief space of time was made possible only through the far-reaching policy of the Chevrolet organization and the tremendous resources and production facilities of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

Never in the history of the industry will so many new models of one make have been placed in hands in such a limited space of time.

Cars will be ready for the boulevards and highways immediately after the first of the year. Production at the various assembly plants throughout the United States is racing along as fast as precision manufacturing will permit.

Unofficial reports from the Chevrolet offices here say that the new car will embody many improvements in design and construction. New standards of beauty are promised. Easier handling and smoother going qualities are heralded as some of the outstanding features of the new Chevrolet line.

Many unlooked for changes have been made in the appearance of the car, according to reports, providing the new Chevrolet with a beauty and style appeal, unexampled in the low price field.

Without disclosing details, Chevrolet officials declare that the new cars would embody the results of 13 years experience and progress in the building of low priced transportation. Lessons learned from millions of miles of testing on the General Motors proving ground have been brought to bear on the new product, officials declared. In fact all the resources of General Motors have been employed for months to design and build the car that is heralded to be by a wide margin the greatest automobile ever offered by Chevrolet.

More than 5,500 newspapers across the entire country will assist through their advertising columns in broadcasting the announcement, which will take the form of one of the most comprehensive campaigns ever attempted in the automobile industry. Every city, town and hamlet in the country will read the details of the 1928 Chevrolet on New Year's day.

BENTON BAPTISTS ADD 40 MEMBERS

Highly Successful Revival Is Closed Sunday; Baptizing To Be Sunday.

The two weeks meeting at the Baptist church, came to a close last Lord's Day night. Both the attendance and interest were good throughout the entire meeting. Evangelist DeGarmo brought at each service, a strong and convincing gospel message. He preached salvation only by faith in Christ. He used no clap trap method but depended on the gospel and the Holy Spirit, to bring about results. The singing led by Singer J. H. Dew met the entire satisfaction of all.

There were forty additions to the church. The ordinance of baptism will be administered next Lord's Day at 11 a. m. in Ferguson Creek. The Lord's Supper will be observed at the evening service at the church.

Cars will be ready for the boulevards and highways immediately after the first of the year. Production at the various assembly plants throughout the United States is racing along as fast as precision manufacturing will permit.

LET'S SETTLE THIS TIRE QUESTION NOW

Most manufacturers claim to have "the better tires." They're sincere.

The tires of 1927 are better, of course, than the tires of 1907 and 1917. It's to be expected that the tire of 1937 will be better still.

But the man buying a tire today wants to know, "What's the best tire on the Market NOW?"

Everybody tells him: "I've got it—a bargain." "Here it is—with a special discount." Claim upon claim, inducement on inducement.

Yet, after all, the intelligent buyer will always bank on the "preponderance of the evidence," as the lawyers call it:

RE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND

Reason for this is plain. Goodyear Tires have made. They are supreme on the road, where performance is by judge.

Goodyear keeps this leadership unchallenged because—car makes the World's Greatest Tire—

Goodyears out-perform any other tires;

Goodyears sell at fair prices without "bargains," "dis- or cuts in quality; cards, because the card will al- ways show it. The friend who re- ceives it will feel as if a dash of face and a clumsy limp hand had been laid in his. That feeling is somewhat lacking in the proper Christmas spirit, oh, ever so slightly, you know.

If you must be dignified and formal at least do not be rigid and cold. Your engraved message can have a bit of originality in expression and your formal etch- ing or design can be a thing of beauty with warmth of tone and coloring.

A variety of Good Cards

With all the perfectly deligh- ful designs in cards arranged for you by the several publishers there is really no excuse for frigid and meaningless ones.

In your favorite bookshop you will find a goodly array from which to choose. The stationery department of a big stor els usually equally well supplied. You can find an excellent assortment from which to pick yours, as early as September. And early choice in your cards as well as in your other shopping will save much disappointment and vex- ation.

In the shop there are scrap books with cards and envelopes pasted in, and prices below. The price usually includes the print- ing, or engraving, of your name in the space left specially for it.

Making Your Own

Artists always have the advan- tage over others in that they can design their own Christmas cards. Sometimes they cut the blocks necessary and print them as well. The charm of these has become so apparent that many of the commercial cards imitate the hand-cut block with the effect of original work.

Some of the methods of print- ing are most interesting. A silver deer springing blithely over a snow laden landscape on a grey paper graced one card found in the shops. Reindeer seem espe- cially popular this year. Last year the cards all seemed to show jolly stage coaches laden with holiday merry makers. Santa and his swift sleigh is to have the lime- light this year.

Gay Tones in Cards

Gay tints of papers are char- acteristic of this year's Christmas messages. Silver stars are scat- tered over some envelope and card. One especially vigorous in color wore brilliant stripes in green, red and silver on a black ground. A greeting was printed on the cover and inside a white insert was tied. One side had a picture of men singing Christ- mas carols, the other message of good will.

The Xmas Card Fever

It is suggested for children's cards that they do not tackle too intricate a design. It is far easier to draw than to cut a design. The cutting of the lettering will cause the most trouble. A holly wreath with open spaces left for hand coloring is a good subject. Candlesticks, pine boughs and cones and Christmas trees lend themselves to the somewhat stiff treatment involved in cutting blocks. Correspondence cards are excellent for use in printing be- cause the envelopes are made to match.

Once a person becomes inter- ested in printing his own Christ- mas cards he is forever lost. For from then on he will only send forth his own humble efforts from year to year, but will take great delight in collecting the ef- forts, smitten with a peculiar sort of fever, that of hand wrought Christmas Cards.

With a ton of tobacco stalks worth probably $25 as fertilizer, many farmers carefully preserve their stalks indoors or else spread them immediately on the land, be- fore they leach out and lose much of their high fertilizing value.

A Wreath and a Candle Spoke From the Window

PLEASE, lady, won't you buy some tulips?"

And Dawson, bells of her set, step- ping briskly out of a department store, her arms filled with Christmas pack- ages, looked down into the searching eyes of two poorly clad little girls.

"Tulips?" she repeated, smiling. "Why, tulips are not due yet. You should have red roses, poinsettias, and holly at Christmas time."

"Yes'm, I know," said the one car- rying the basket of wax flowers, "but we don't know how to make anything but tulips. They are all red, though, and just a quarter for three."

"I see," said Anne. "Making some extra money, aren't you, to buy some- thing pretty for mamma?"

"No, ma'am," answered the sister. "I wish we could buy something pretty for mother, but we are trying to get us some school shoes before time to go back after Christmas."

Anne's eyes sought the children's feet and her throat filled with a shok- ing lump.

"Why—why—yes, I'll buy a dollar's worth. Will that help much?"

"Oh, yes'm," from both simultane- ously. Their eyes sought each other's in happy anticipation while Anne, struggling with her packages, clumsily extracted the bill from her purse.

"Now tell me where you live, little tulip makers. I might want some more of them sometime," taking the bunch held out to her. The address was care- fully noted, and thoughtfully Anne stood watching the children as they became lost in the street crowd. For the first time, her eyes had been opened to a new life.

Next day a rap on the door of a cottage in a poor section of the city brought an answer from one of the flower girls. No one was in sight, but as the door opened a big car was seen moving away and on the porch was a large well-filled basket ornamented with holly and one big red candle. When the basket was taken inside and examined many useful gifts for mother and the girls were disclosed as well as a generous supply of fruit, nuts and candy. The card read:

"I shall drive by on Christmas night. If you are happy let the wreath and lighted candle speak from your win- dows."

Was the candle burning? And did the wreath adorn the other front win- dow? Well, yes; and the bright faces within the well-lighted room brought to Anne Dawson far greater joy than the handsome gifts that were hers on Christmas morning.—Lily Rutherford Morris.

Christmas Dolls

THE modern Christmas doll, so dear to the hearts of lit- tle maids of all nations, had its origin in the days of long, long ago.

Dolls were once regarded as sacred objects, and the word "doll" is believed to be a cor- ruption of the word "idol." The dolls or idols of early days were carved out of wood or bone, and the dolls of later days were probably reproductions of the idols, used in worship.

Dolls are comparatively mod- ern playthings in this country, and the oldest museum speci- mens only go back to Queen Anne's days, before which time there are no records of their use by British children. They were introduced from Flanders, and were called "Flanders ba- bies," or "children's babies."—Montreal Star.

Russian Christmas Table

In the center of his Christmas table the Russian peasant places a bundle of straw, symbol of the manger, and, before the meal, each guest draws from the bundle a blade of straw. The one who draws the longest being destined to live the longest.

St. Nicholas

St. Nicholas, as the patron-saint of Christmas, seems to have been adopted by America; Father Christmas is indigenous to Britain. Santa Claus to Germany, and Kris Kringle to Hol- land, but they all seem to be variants of the first-named.—Montreal Star.

Candles Are Dangerous

Matches should always be kept out of the reach of children and parents should be especially cautious around the holiday season when there is so much extra inflammable materials in the house, suggests the national safety council.

Christmas Greeting Cards

Christmas greeting cards will cost this country $55,000,000, and that does not take into account the time lost in trying to remember to whom they should be sent.

Make Some One Happy

Make some one's Christmas merry and your own will care for itself.

REMEMBRANCE

In remembrance of my dear mother. Just 1 year from today, December 18th, the death angel visited the home of my father, Mr. John B. Thweatt and took from us all our precious mother we all loved so well. The home is so lonesome without her but our blessed Saviour knew best so he called her home to rest. She bore her suffering with patience and kindness. She was a dear, kind loving wife and mother. She had a kind word for us all. Some day I am looking for an eternal home like hers, where sorrow will be no more. Written by her daughter, Mrs. May Fowler.

ugh silent in death.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Dec. 19 death that overtook him last Friday and became known only today—the spirit of Benjamin Purnell, self-styled "seventh Messenger", and king of the House of David colony, still rules the faithful of the cult.

All that is mortal of the man who taught his followers that he was immortal rested tonight on an "cot" in his chambers in Shp., the administration building of the House of David. But faithful still believe in Purnell's teachings and await the rise from the dead, which they say will take place before the fourth day of his demise.

Firm were they in their conviction that through Purnell's temporary rule had ended he would rise from the dead, that they pleaded with health officers to leave his body untouched for at least another 24 hours.

Novelties for This Year's Christmas Giving

To start with you must consider the recipient of the gift slightly. If she is ultra modern, and most sophisticated you will have no trouble at all finding something to please her. But suppose he is really and truly mid-Victorian—well then you will have to select with greater care, his gift. Of course he would never admit he was mid-Victorian—they never do! But if you keep in mind his being very conventional and matter-of-fact and conservative you will doubtless be able to select some little thing he will really like.

If your friend is collecting antiques, say some particular thing—like old clocks, or old glass, or second and third grade readers, McGuffey's preferably,—your task is somewhat simplified, — and then again it isn't. Because your search may lead you far afield,—but it will be a fascinating search for all that.

For the Antiqueophile

You may find the very thing you are looking for, in some tiny antique shop in another town, and at the same time a pair of those charmingly elegant ladies of fashion of the Eighteen-twenties that you have been wanting for every so long. To one who enjoys it, there is nothing quite so delightful as to browse around in an antique shop.

For contrast, let us return to our ultra modern young person who feels, and quite sincerely too, that the lovely things that originated in the Paris Exhibition of Modern Decorative Arts are "perfectly darling." Is there something for her? Yes indeed.

The Low Perspective

To begin with in the modern art it seems to be largely a matter of perspective. That sounds like the veriest bromide,—but it isn't. A low perspective especially characterizes the modern things. One is expected to sit on acushion, or low stool, or at the very highest no a bench lower than the average chair, which is eighteen inches from the floor.

For this purpose there are lovely gay cushions to sit on,—and a tray along side of an unusual shape, with a mirror top and feet, that bring it the least bit higher than the cushions.

A gift of a table to fit in with the low perspective might be much appreciated. There are several kinds. One was composed of three circular glass shelves graduated in size, the smallest at the top. These had a center rod surmounted by a cut crystal handle, and the base of this rod was a silver star. Another table was of a most amusingly odd shape, painted orange with queer little shelves and nooks below it.

Book-ends and Flower-bowls

If she has such a table you may want to give her something for it; and there are many new things from which to choose. There are delightfully weird grotesques from Austria. Some of these have no more serious purpose in this world than to be laughed at. Others are ash trays or incense burners. Chinese elephants with their fine reserve of modeling fit in beautifully with the modern art.

Bowls for flowers come in never ending varieties. This year low ones of odd shapes are especially designed to hold cactus plants. Surely one would not feel tempted to sit on one of these low tables if a warning in the way of many-spined cactus sat on top of it.

A New Thing in Light

If your friend likes flowers, she may enjoy a new wrought iron stand that holds three pots at different heights. The shape suggests a husky and vigorous sunflower, but is painted red and green.

Bottles filled with colored water are made into lamps and having bright pleated shades, fit in very well with the modern effect.

A very new and lovely thing in the way of a light was held by a kneeling figure in pottery on an onyx base. The clouded glass she held upright reminded you of a calla lily. In its center was a flame-shaped white electric globe. The effect was at once dignified and most unusual.

Nice Things in Glass

If you have friends who like glass, you will find some very excellent things awaiting your selections. For the hostess there is a punch bowl with glasses to match. The punch bowl is high and has a come-shaped lid. At one side is a notch for the handle of the ladle to project. The bowl and glasses are painted with sprays of flowers. A handsome tray completes the set. For one who enjoys the sun room or porch there are several kinds of lemonade sets. A basket tray holds the pitcher with glasses set round it and has a high handle over all, so that it may be carried easily. These sets come in different colors, rose, amber, green and so on. In the same part of the store, intricate arrangements of glass beads are made for gifts,—peacocks and pheasants and birds,—such odd birds that never were.

New and Old in Jewelry

Speaking of beads, if one is able to give jewelry for one's gift, there are things that make one catch one's breath at some of the jewelry shops. Here again the ancient and modern are simply contrasted.

If the one to whom you are giving cares for old things you will find the jewelers have collected some of these for you. Little sets are available. In instance a necklace, a pair earrings and a brooch, that it, and were made for the be of 1780. Some times a pair of e-clets are included.

The modern things haveuch charm and great beauty of workmanship and design. So, if you maintain a delicate frost-effect by setting tiny diamond in platinum. There are so many things from which to choose—rings, pins, hat ornaments, be-lets, watches, clocks, cigarette cases and so on.

"Just What I Wanted!"

Jewelry for personal ornament has been influenced slightly by fashions in dress. Side hats have called for greater variety in hat ornaments. He bracelets are worn. Pins are for the shoulders or hip, were formerly bar pins were used for the open collar or shirt-was. Pearls fit in with so many kis of costumes that they have had great popularity.

Consider the one on whom you are about to inflict your gift. (Alas, some gifts are an infliction, aren't they! It makes one perfectly gulp to have "thank you" for them). That very thing is the mark of all. May you succeed in giving each of your friends parting good wish for you

"We have done it unto me."

At Christmas time there is a spirit of giving which has shared its abundance with need. In the last few weeks of Good fellows have made it their business to visit poor families, provide with dinners and presents that they too, might have a real Christmas.

It is a regular part of our work to consider the needs of the poor at Christmas. The organizations, groups and individuals who try to do something for the poor, share with them the Christmas spirit.

Any in which the work is forward varies with different towns and with the kind of work in hand.

Hair Cuts for Orphans
In some towns, because there is not to be a single orphan in one county in the west, the work done by the local needs, is confined on the poor farm and hospital for disabled veterans.

town in the Rockies much thought is given to the orphans there. In the orphanage there, the manager gives each child a free ticket during the holiday season and the street car comes to the barbers of this town to give the children free hair cuts.

as Stant's Helpers
In some Western town a custom prevails, that so many to share in giving.

About December first, children are invited to their cast off toys to be collected and the firemen painting and them. It is quite in the line of things for the young to go down to the fire station after school and watch the work in progress.

The Rotary club of that city takes care of the baskets for the poor, and distributes the toys with the baskets. This method of having so many contribute of time or skill, or whatever they have to give, seems especially commendable.

Xmas Spirit at R. R. Stations
Another Christmas custom that this same city takes care of, is arranging for a Christmas tree inside the railway station. Through the holiday week, from eight to ten every evening, there is some sort of entertainment provided for the travelers who must wait for trains. The Camp Fire girls have charge one evening, the boys band another. The high school Glee Club takes part and many of the church choirs. One evening there was a fine musical program given by the choir from the colored church.

Individual charities are always possible. Sometimes these take the form of giving a good time to some elderly person who is really not in need. Old ladies are left stranded in hotels and boarding houses, their families scattered or indifferent to their welfare. They may have sufficient for all their material wants or even more than enough. But the holiday season may find them cruelly lonesome, memories of happier times, surrounded by loved ones, pressing in upon them.

Kindness Is Its Own Reward
In such a case an invitation to your home for Christmas dinner and perhaps a ride with your family afterwards may mean a bright spot to some elderly friend that will give pleasure in memory for weeks afterwards.

Dinner in a hotel or boarding house on Christmas with no close friend at hand is indeed a prospect.

Those who are shut in because of invalidism deserve our special thoughtfulness and care. All sorts of little loving attentions can be arranged for such ones without great expense.

One friend makes a point of saving up magazines articles that are bright and sparkling and collecting them in a scrap book for one or two she knows, who are shut-in. She finds out before hand what particular subject they are following and through the year watches for stories that apply to it.

Charity in Institutions
A treasure chest made of amusing toys, tiny useful articles, and good little bits of pottery can be carefully packed, each one in a separate package. With it a prescription should be sent.

"Take one each morning after breakfast, with a glass of water."

At a certain county home for incurables there was a wise rule that the workers who came to visit and conduct religious services there, should not give presents other than periodicals.

One worker found that another had broken the rule in a very loving way. She had taken an old lady's glasses and had them repaired for her. The light on the old lady's face when the glasses was returned to her more than repaid the trouble.

Of course, it is hardly necessary to mention that giving in (Continued on page 8)

SENATOR NORRIS ASSAILS HEARST

One of Four Named in Mexican Bribe Charge Attacks
Publisher.

Washington, Dec. 19. — A severe condemnation of William Randolph Hearst for publishing in his newspaper documents purporting to show the creation of a $1,215,000 Mexican fund for four United States senators, was read to the Senate today from one of the four accused—Norris, of Nebraska—as members of the investigation committee took steps to clear the names of all four.

An open letter from Senator Norris, ill at home, to Mr. Hearst declaring him "not only unfair and dishonest but entirely without honor," in publishing the documents even with the names of the senators deleted, was the signal for the first Senate discussion of the case since the special inquiry opened last Thursday.

Just Tottering, So Weak

"I was in a bad state of health and was going through a critical time of my life," says Mrs. Ella Scarborough, R. F. D. 5, Dothan, Ala. "Several different things were recommended to me, but I did not get any real relief until I began to take Cardui."

"I was just as weak as could be. My legs were shaky, and often I would just totter around the house. I finally got so bad that I was in bed several weeks."

"It was then that I began to take Cardui. I kept it up for quite a while, and at last I regained my health. Cardui was certainly a friend to me in time of need."

"My health is splendid now, and I seldom have to use medicine, but I gladly say a word about Cardui whenever I find a friend going through the same suffering which I endured."

For sale by all druggists.
